Nightingale to exhibit at NeoCon East - Baltimore

October 4, 2006 – Nightingale, an innovative designer and manufacturer of office seating since 1928, is proud to announce its participation in the upcoming NeoCon East 2006 show in Baltimore.

Nightingale's showroom is #1457.

Nightingale will feature several hot new patented chair designs that is sure to impress. In addition to its design award winning flagship chairs, the CXO and SXO, Nightingale plans to unveil the newest addition to the XO Collection – the LXO.

The patented Butterfly chair will also make its debut at the show. A light weight stacking chair with sleek stylings allow people to quickly and easily come together, move around, move apart – whatever the work requires. Whatever....Whenever.

This award winning showcase of modern office seating will be emphasized by the stylings and color selections of futurist and creative dreamer, Ania. "Nightingale's showroom will be relevant, hot, and inviting with Ania's vision much like our line up of chairs" says Ed Breen, Vice-President.

From the very first patented chair in 1928 through to today, Nightingale has continuously designed, and manufactured patented office seating solutions. It has remained true to its founder's core beliefs that all Nightingale chairs be designed and manufactured with the clients comfort in mind while exceeding the highest quality standards. Today, Nightingale's product line of office seating consists of over 60 product series including task, stackable, management, executive, conference, lounge, children's, healthcare, and educational applications.
